CerFab 7500 Dental

Company: Lithoz GmbH, Vienna, Austria

Lithoz is the world market leader in providing systems and materials for the manufacture of high-performance and bioresorbable ceramics. Our new machine, the CeraFab 7500 Dental, has been specifically developed for dental applications, and is able to manufacture various components including crowns, veneers and dental implants. The simple data preparation and user-friendly machine controls facilitate intuitive and easy production, and the material saving production method of this new system means that any leftover material can be reused.
